FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Columbia Seminary attempts to provide financial assistance for any Master of Divinity student who is in financial need.

The seminary Financial Aid Officer, James T. Richardson, will consult with any student who wishes to discuss his financial situation. After consultation, students may apply for financial aid. This financial assistance may take the form of grants, work scholarships or loans. The Financial Aid Committee considers each request separately and attempts to make the wisest use of monies designated for financial assistance.

The student financial aid program is based upon the following Principles of Student Financial Aid for Theological Education which have been approved by the American Association of Theological Schools.

1. The primary purposes of a financial aid program for theological students are to assist in their educational preparation for church occupations, and to make possible the enrollment of promising candidates by providing assistance to students who demonstrate financial need.
2. The total amount of financial assistance offered a student should not exceed the amount of his need.
3. Financial need is defined as the difference between the total cost of attending a particular institution and the amount of the resources available to the student.
4. Financial assistance consists of grants, loans, and employment.
5. The family of a student, whether the student is unmarried or married, is expected to make every reasonable effort to assist the student with his educational expenses.
6. The student himself is expected to provide a major share of his expense through savings and other assets, through summer employment, and through term-time work where feasible.
7. In the case of a married student with no children, the spouse who has completed his or her formal education is normally expected to be gainfully employed. The spouse's total earnings are to be considered as part of the total family income. Because of the importance of this source of income, student couples who hope for financial aid should not normally anticipate that increased aid will offset loss of income resulting from the wife having children.
8. The student's home church and presbytery should assist with the costs of his preparation for a church occupation in cases where the student demonstrates financial need and if such assistance is consistent with denominational policy.
9. Since the principles of Christian stewardship apply to all Christians, candidates should make provision in their financial estimates for gifts to church and charities out of their own earnings.
10. Financial assistance is granted on the basis of need on a year-to-year basis, with re-application and review each year.

Second and third year students may expect to receive some remuneration from supply preaching as it is available. This is supervised by the Director of Field Education. Normally, first year students are not allowed to supply pulpits.
